ROOSEVELT SAILING SOUTH FROM NASSAU

Barracuda and Not Votes Now Foremost in Thoughts of President.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI Fla, April 1—Bronzed by the sun and ocean winds President Roosevelt cruised southward from Nassau today eagerly intent upon fishing for the remainder of the week.

The national campaign seemed far from the President's thoughts as talked with new papermen yesterday aboard the U S S Potomac in Nassau harbor.

The campaign was mentioned by a reporter when Mr Roosevelt stated he was going to a spot in the Atlantic known as the tongue of the ocean—a deep body of water surrounded by coral reefs about 60 miles south of Nassau. Asked if he was going to fish for some sharp campaign words there he smiled and quickly replied barracuda words. The barracuda is a vicious fish.

The President described his fishing luck as the best of any of his annual trips in these waters and remarked that enough was caught daily to feed the entire ship.

The President still is expected to remain at sea until Saturday, Sunday or Monday depending on conditions at home. He expressed the hope of stopping at Warm Springs Ga briefly on the return.

INJURED CHILD'S CONDITION BETTER

Slight improvement was reported this morning in the condition of Phyllis Ann Chapman 4 who was seriously burned yesterday morning when she attempted to reach a piece of candy on top of a gas stove at the home of her parents Mr and Mrs Thomas Chapman of 776 York street. Her general condition was reported by City hospital attaches to be fairly good this morning.

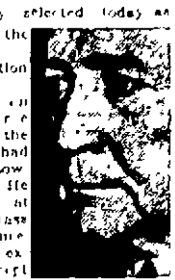
Republicans Ask Lowden To Give Keynote Speech

Edge of New Jersey May Be Named Permanent Chairman of Convention.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 1—Former Gov Frank O Lowden of Illinois was tentatively selected today as keynoter for the Republican national convention at Cleveland.



F O Lowden

Republican leaders were agreed upon the selection but had not obtained Lowden's consent. He was keynoter at last year's grass roots conference however and expected to accept the new invitation. To balance off Lowden a midwesterner Republican leaders were discussing selection of an eastern man as permanent chairman of the convention. Former ambassador and Sen Walter Edge of New Jersey was said by high party officials to be a likely choice.

Both posts will be formally filled at a meeting of the committee on arrangements for the convention April 21 at Cleveland. The convention meets June 9.

Democrats have not yet chosen any of their convention officials. The Democratic committee on arrangements will meet in Philadelphia late this month to select the convention officials. President Roosevelt's choices are expected to prevail.

High officials said Sen Robinson of Arkansas Democratic leader was a likely selection for permanent chairman with a western governor the probable choice for keynoter. Sen Wagner Democrat of New York may be chosen to nominate President Roosevelt for the second term.

OHIO CANAL PROJECT FOUGHT BY RAILWAYS

ect estimated to cost $161,000,000 came from W J Kinsey president of the Steubenville O Chamber of Commerce who testified the only achievement would be a waterway to Youngstown which would break down long established competitive factors to the advantage of Youngstown over other communities.

He said Steubenville's coal and railroad industry would be damaged by the canal and suggested Youngstown steel plants expand in other markets at their own expense rather than at that of the taxpayers.

Representative Einzinger Democrat of Ohio criticized the project primarily on the ground it would benefit only the steel interests at Youngstown.

If the government is to subsidize industry he said I believe it can turn to several other industries which are greatly in need of assistance.

Ficalinger said he had been requested by the Chambers of Commerce of Sandusky Fremont and Tiffin as well as the Upper Ohio Valley association to testify against the project.

Advocates Finish Arguments

Proponents of the waterway already approved by the army's district and division engineers concluded their testimony yesterday. The board also heard from proponents of the French creek or all-Pennsylvania route for the canal as well as those favoring the Toledo-Cincinnati route. The engineers recommended a route via the Beaver and Mahoning rivers.

Opposing the canal as a representative of several railroads R P Forsberg Pittsburgh engineer told the board the per mile cost of the canal would be 12 times that of improvements on the Ohio and Monongahela rivers.

He added that diversion of freight from railroads to the canal would reduce the railroads gross revenues by $30,159,500 with the resultant loss of employment.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. OHIO LIQUOR ACT IS RULED INVALID in the business which has always been the subject of private enterprise. It follows that the legislature of the state of Ohio has no right or authority by special act conferring corporate powers to legislate anyone out of legitimate business under the veil of police power and keep it unto itself.

The rights of the state to regulate and control the liquor traffic is not questioned. Strict regulations must be exercised. If strict regulation is not enforced the liquor traffic soon will be history.

What a peculiar anomaly exists in Ohio on one hand the state attempts to regulate a traffic which it claims is such that it needs police protection and supervision and at the same time it is encouraging that business for profit.

Judge Hess gave the opinion in the case of Max R Mendel a liquor firm salesman who was charged with possession of liquor which did not bear the state seal and with transporting liquor without an H permit issued by the state liquor control department.

He directed Assistant Attorney General Wilbur Shull assigned to the liquor department to prepare an appeal to the Hamilton county appellate court.

VERA STRETZ MURDER TRIAL NEARING JURY

Miss Stretz was unable to say the interval between them.

I just saw blood she told the jury.

The young woman denied the testimony of policemen that she told them when arrested a few minutes after the shooting that there had been no assault.

A ballistics engineer called in rebuttal by the state contradicted testimony of Miss Stretz that she had purchased in 1931 the cartridges with which she killed her lover.

Martin A Robinson of New Haven Conn employed by an arms company was asked to examine the box of cartridges found in Gebhardt's bureau after he was shot last Nov 12.

Are you able to tell when these cartridges were manufactured by the serial numbers? inquired O'Brien.

Oct 5 1933 replied Robinson. He was dismissed.

Miss Stretz who late yesterday completed three days on the witness stand had testified she purchased a revolver and cartridges in 1931 after a burglar scare. She gave them to Gebhardt last summer she said.

The cartridges found after the shooting she added she thought were in the same box.

Detective John B Kaiser in charge of the investigation followed Robinson to the stand.

Judge Cornelius F Collins and Samuel Leibowitz Miss Stretz counsel engaged in a long colloquy over whether the attorney had charged Kaiser with changing his testimony in open court.

Leibowitz recalled Robinson. The attorney had him describe his education in ballistics.

Your experience encompasses the effect of an object and a bullet when a shot is fired?

Yes.

Any tests on flesh?

Some of them.

Leibowitz had the witness relate his appearances as an expert in court cases—in the Don Mellett case at Canton O in the Hall-Mills murder case and the Sacco-Vanzetti case among others.

Leibowitz had him examine the Stretz gun.

Miss Stretz began crying quietly as the attorney read from the autopsy report of Gebhardt's death.

The state objected successfully to a defense question as to whether the wound produced on the body of Gebhardt by Miss Stretz first bullet would have been made according to the position of the principals as described by the defendant.

BIG BREAK AWAITED IN TRENTON CASE

stay of execution.

The arguments were based largely upon the three confessions later repudiated by Wendel. It was set forth that with another man in jail charged with the crime and having confessed to it the state should not proceed with the Hauptmann execution.

Justice Trenchard thoroughly familiar with the Hauptmann case by reason of having served as the trial judge at Flemington where Hauptmann was convicted early last year denied the plea and described the new evidence as incredible and out of harmony with the known facts in the case.

Legal authorities frankly were in a quandary today as to what might happen next.

Fisher Is Puzzled

C Lloyd Fisher chief defense counsel said he had no idea what avenues were opened by the delay in the execution. So far as he knew there was no precedent.

In the case of an indictment being returned against Wendel Fisher felt that a way would be found to extend the stay of Hauptmann's execution.

Several witnesses were questioned some of them more than once. Among them were Wendel's son and daughter. The latter Mrs Dorothy Wendel Phillips fainted after testifying.

Ellis Parker the 65-year-old Burlington county detective who has worked independently for more than a year in an effort to solve the Lindbergh case and to prove his contention that Hauptmann is not guilty of the crime was closeted with the jury for some time.

Associate of Hoffman

Parker is a close associate of Gov Harold G Hoffman who has led a strong fight in recent months to save Hauptmann from the electric chair at least until a further investigation could be made of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

It was Parker who turned Wendel over to Mercer county authorities late last week after obtaining the confessions which Wendel has since vigorously repudiated.

So swiftly moved the events of the execution day that the issuance by Gov Hoffman of a 30-day reprieve for Charles Zied the man who was to have walked the last mile with Hauptmann was almost buried under the avalanche of developments in the case of Hauptmann.

Zied Gave Up Hope

Zied a Philadelphia gangster who killed a Camden policeman had given up all hope and was resigned to death in the chair.

But Hauptmann who has won the sobriquet of man of steel because of his steady refusal to flinch during the torturing months that have followed his arrest in September 1934 broke yesterday and accepted death last night as inevitable.

This was apparent in a letter to Gov Hoffman which Hauptmann wrote while the hour set for execution drew near and which was delivered to the office of the governor by a prison guard late in the same afternoon.

With my dying breath and believe at least a dying man were phrases that stood out in the letter written by the same hand which the prosecution charged wrote the Lindbergh ransom notes.

Denounces Dr Condon

He scored Dr John F Condon the ransom intermediary who identified him as the man to whom the ransom money was paid Attorney-General Wilentz who prosecuted him and even a word of censure for his chief lawyer at the Flemington trial.

I assure your excellency that I am not guilty of this crime the German-born carpenter wrote.

Why did people say on the witness stand they saw me near Hopewell. Up to the present day I have no idea where the Lindbergh house in Hopewell is located.

In one place Hauptmann wrote:

Mr Wilentz with my dying breath I swear by God that you convicted an innocent man. God will be judge between me and you. I beg you attorney general believe at least a dying man.

HOPE SPRINGS ANEW FOR MRS. HAUPTMANN

Puts Aside Mourning Attire for Spring Suit and Says He May Still Be Saved

By The Associated Press

TRENTON N J April 1 I think this will be the means of saving him said Mrs Anna Hauptmann today of the delay in execution which snatched her husband from death last night.

Instead of wearing the mourning veil she had bought Bruno Richard Hauptmann's wife laid out her gay checked spring suit for another visit to his death cell.

Her joy in Hauptmann's new lease on life was greater for receiving loving messages from him relayed by Rev D G Werner who was praying with Bruno in his cell when news came of the delay.

What happened at the hotel room where Anna received the news was as dramatic as the cell scene when Bruno heard it while praying.

Mrs Hauptmann was transformed from a despairing woman on the verge of collapse and under a physician's care to a picture of animation.

She chatted happily in German with Rev Werner Bronx pastor who came to her room from the prison. She told C Lloyd Fisher Hauptmann's attorney:

Tonight I shall be able to sleep.

She was [illegible] smiling when she came to the door in a bright print dress trimmed with a green velvet bow to bid Fisher good night.

Mrs Hauptmann who had been near the telephone all day waiting for something to turn up received the news by phone from Fisher.

Her hopes had nearly ebbed. She had sent to the prison what she thought might be her last message to her husband: I love you and I will always remember you.

Japanese Claim Mongols Attacked

(Copyright 1936 Associated Press)

TOKYO April 1—The Japanese army command in Manchoukuo charged today that a squadron of 12 Outer Mongolian airplanes bombarded heavily a frontier guard within Manchoukuoan territory.

A communique issued by the Japanese general headquarters at Hsinking capital of Manchoukuo asserted both the air raid and a later ground clash occurred about 20 kilometers (12.5 miles) north of Tawlan inside the Manchoukuoan frontier.

Both sides were reported to have suffered heavy losses in the clash on the disputed sector between the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchoukuo and the Soviet-supported republic of Outer Mongolia but the outcome of the conflict was not disclosed.

A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Hsinking implied that the Mongols used poison gas in the encounter.

The Manchoukuo foreign office is extremely indignant at the Outer Mongolian air forces bombing of Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces March 29 and 31 and also the activities of Outer Mongolian chemical warfare units the dispatch said.

Considering these developments a serious menace to the peace of the far east and detrimental to the relations between Manchoukuo and Mongolia the Manchoukuo foreign office is preparing a strong protest to Outer Mongolia after detailed reports are available.

At the same time both the war office and foreign office said they were entirely ignorant of a reported invasion of Outer Mongolia by Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces charged in Soviet advices from Ulan Bator (Urga) capital of Outer Mongolia.

Blemishes Made Her Old Looking
Face Clear Again With Cuticura Soap and Ointment
Here is a letter every skin sufferer should read. Its message is vital. "There were blemishes on my face of external origin and they made me look old and haggard. They were red, hard and large. They would hurt and when I scratched them the skin would become irritated and I would lie awake at night and start digging at my face. But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one tin of Cuticura Ointment my face was cleared again." (Signed) Mrs. L. Whetzler, 2nd St., Florence, Pa., June 15, 1935. Physicians can understand such letters. The Cuticura formulas have proved their effectiveness for over half a century. Remember Cuticura Soap and Ointment are also for pimples, rashes, ringworm, burning of eczema and other externally caused skin blemishes. All druggists. Soap 25c. Ointment 25c.

MRS. ALLMAN ACTS TO CUT HOME COSTS

Auditor and Fiscal Officer Sent to Sandusky To Check Up on Institution.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O April 1—State Welfare Director Margaret Allman pressed her plan today to cut the payroll of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors home at Sandusky by $1,000 a month despite the suspended commandant's assertion that this was impossible.

We firmly believe it can be done Mrs Allman said as Perry L Null suspended as commandant for 30 days without pay for disciplinary reasons and his wife whose position as matron was abolished vacated their quarters.

While Null reiterated his determination to fight before the civil service commission for his post Mrs Allman sent two welfare department officials to Sandusky preliminary to an investigation to discover means of cutting the payroll. They were R J Steele auditor and William Aitken fiscal officer.

Null a truck gardener before his appointment by former Gov Harry L Davis in 1921 said that under civil service regulations his wife could not appeal her ouster. She received $600 a year. Mrs Allman abolished her post for economy reasons.

Null said he and his wife would leave Sandusky for a much needed rest. He did not disclose where they would go.

Lieut Col John C Volkar acting commandant surveyed the home payroll and began his routine duties at the home.

Aimee Makes Up With Her Mother After Court Tilt

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES Calif April 1—Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson lost a point in a $100,000 slander suit yesterday then became reconciled with her mother with whom she had been at odds several years. Mrs Kennedy the mother declared:

If Aimee needs me now she can come to me with an open heart.

The evangelist responded:

Our differences were merely a matter of church policy.

The two have not met yet. The reconciliation was brought about by Mrs Kennedy's friendly statement towards her daughter expressed in a newspaper interview. Mrs Kennedy said:

I have not talked to my daughter since I resigned from Angelus Temple. I shall never go near the church except to visit my daughter.

Judge Robert Walker Kenny ruled that Mrs McPherson must answer the suit brought against her by Vivian Denton.

Judge Kenny overruled Mrs McPherson's demurrer and gave her 10 days to file an answer.

Miss Denton former Angelus temple publicity agent accused the evangelist of calling her an imp of satan.

Robert E Johnson manager of the plant when asked about the $10,126.56 figure allowed for depreciation at the plant last year said depreciation was computed at the New York office and that he does not know on what basis it was figured.

Ashtabula serves its consumers through approximately 49 miles of pipes obtaining pressure from a steam pumping plant. Pressure is a problem because of the varied elevation of different parts of the city but a pressure of around 60 pounds in the uptown district is maintained Mr Johnson said.

Serves Other Communities

In addition to serving the city of Ashtabula the plant pumps water for the nearby villages of Geneva-on-the-Lake and Madison wholesaling 39,501,000 gallons to them last year.

Mr Johnson said the bulk of the plant's industrial revenue comes from the New York Central Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate railroads.

Like the Marion Water Co the Ashtabula plant serves domestic consumers through three-quarter inch pipes. This is slightly larger than the five-eighths inch pipes used in many cities.

The plant built approximately five miles of new lines and [illegible] to consumers [illegible] of the new franchise [illegible] in 193[illegible].

City Manager Carl S Sheldon said he regards Ashtabula as fortunate in having an unusually high grade of water and an unusually low rate. He said there has been little talk of municipal ownership in Ashtabula as a result of the low rate adding however that in his opinion if a city owned any public utility it should be its water plant. He cited the danger however of politics complicating the operation of a municipal plant under the mayor form of government in which the plant is completely in charge of a service director appointed by the mayor. He said the city manager form of government appeals to him as to be the only form that permits operation of the plant with reasonable assurance of freedom from politics.

By The Associated Press

ROME April 1—Italy's northern army marched through to its fifth major victory over troops of Haile Selassie led by the emperor himself Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported today in an official communique.

Badoglio announced that 7,000 Ethiopians were killed and that the Italian forces had suffered more than 1,000 casualties.

The Fascist commander in chief said the Ethiopian king of kings fought personally in the battle stretching from the Lake Ashangi sector for 30 miles south of former principal Italian front lines at Amba Alaji.

Marshal Badoglio's communique said:

Yesterday the Negus (emperor) started a great battle with his best troops in the Lake Ashangi zone.

The battle which was extremely violent in certain phases concluded with a victory for our troops.

Further details will be given in a succeeding communique.

LEONINE GESTURE MARKS MARCH'S END

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY April 1—Departing March left marks of a leonine humor over the west today with final gestures of snow dust and damaging cold.

The last day of the capricious month delivered snow to Montana Wyoming northern Colorado and western Kansas a dust storm to southeastern Colorado and New Mexico and more crop-threatening cold to California.

A half inch to an inch of snow in western Kansas made wheat growers more optimistic over crop prospects darkened by dust and drought.

Early today the snow extended over western Kansas and western Missouri.

Kansas City recorded its driest March since 1910 with only .05 of an inch of precipitation.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Sprue.

Medical science groups certain diseases according to the portion of the earth in which they are found For example "ose ailments common in hot climates are spoken of as "tropical diseases."

Until recent years, they were rarely encountered in countries of the temperate zone But now unfortunately some of these diseases have been encountered outside their old abodes. This is probably due to our improved method of transportation to express steamships and the airplane

I want to tell you today about a so-called tropical disease which is occasionally encountered in this country. I refer to "Sprue" a chronic wasting disease of the tropics

It is frequently met in the Malay Archipelago China India parts of Australia all the island group of the tropical Pacific Japan tropical Africa and the West Indies The disease was first described more than a century ago when it was called "Cochin China diarrhea" Within the past few years many reports have come in telling of its occurrence in various parts of the United State

For a long time little was known about the actual cause of Sprue In 1914 Dr Ashford and other research workers discovered a fungus or yeast-like plant which they believed might be the cause of the disease. But the fungus is not found in the majority of cases of Sprue so in reality the exact cause of the ailment is not yet known

As I have said Sprue is a wasting disease The tongue is sore and raw The victim suffers from excessive gas formation with frothy and fetid stools Sometime there may be abdominal pain This symptom is more aptly described as an ache The patient is irritable depressed suffers from extreme fatigue and loss of weight There may be numbness of the legs and arms

In advanced cases the diarrhea is exhausting The sufferer becomes worn out and is very susceptible to other infectious diseases because of the lowered resistance

Examination of the blood reveals a condition similar to that found in pernicious anemia The patient loses weight and is indeed serious ly ill

For innately the disease is soon recognized and adequate measures are taken to combat the disorder A strict regulation of the diet is essential to the cure

EIGHT COUNTIES IN OHIO FREE OF BONDED DEBTS

Units With No Special Obligations Include Hardin and Union Urban Centers Heavily Pressed

(Editor's Note This is the second of a series f articles on the financial condition of Ohio counties)

By F EASTERLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLUMBUS O April 1—Eight Ohio counties enjoy that happy state in which some persons can look all their fellow men in the eye and say I owe you nothing

None of the eight has any bonded debt to worry about They have some Carey poor relief bonds but the state pays them off with proceeds of the utilities excise tax

A survey of 51 counties disclosed these eight bright spots to day as most other counties appealed to the legislature for relief from debt burdens burdens which in some counties require annual expenditures greater than operating expenses

The counties which reported no general obligation or special assessment bonds exclusive of poor relief issues were Fayette Gallia Hardin Monroe Seneca Shelby Union and Van Wert

Furthermore each ended 1935 with all bills paid and reported the e surpluses in the general fund Fayette $ 000 Gallia $1 606 Hardin $30 38 Monroe 10 000 Seneca $97 00 Shelby $ 00 $54 000 and Van Wert $11 714

All rural counties they operate with the exception of Monroe on a pay-as-you-go basis

In contrast Ter is Trumbull county with a general obligation bonded debt of $2 032 307 and a special assessment bonded debt of $190 000 upon which it must pay principal and interest totalling $514 000 in 1936 Trumbull s estimated operating expenses for the year are $ 66 000

Allen and Geauga counties are in a similar condition

Allen s 1936 debt charges are $115 517 as compared with estimated operating expenses of $100 917 while Geauga has set aside $175 306 for principal and interest and its operating expense are estimated at $131 663

Cuyahoga county is the largest in debt With a general obligation bonded debt of $ 0 28 570 and a special assessment bonded debt of $11 690 179 It must pay out $1 043 418 this year in principal and interest

Other counties which must pay out huge sums this year for things bought in the past and their estimated operating expenses in comparison (operating expenses listed second) are

Franklin $855,506 — $1 875 000 Hamilton, $1 578 002 — $4 146,065 Lucas, $1 862 604 — $2,283 992 Mahoning $1 107 894—$1 312 928 Richland, $110 000—$344 674 Sandusky $146,000—$276,861 Stark $712 856 — $1 325,626 and Summit $692,114 $1 606,523.

Failure to collect all the taxes levied is responsible for many of the counties being financially embarrassed For instance Cuyahoga county has $27 404 399 in delinquent taxes outstanding and the taxpayers are $4 659 414 in arrears in Lucas

ALBERTA CAN'T PAY UNDER SOCIAL CREDIT

Government To Default on Bond Issue Because It Cannot Borrow Funds

By The Associated Press

EDMONTON Alta April 1—The Alberta government announced it would default on its bond issue falling due today

The announcement was made just before the close of the session of the legislature gave Canada her first default in international finance

The government in refusing to honor its debt said it could not borrow the necessary money and its default was expected to bring sharp market reaction

The social credit government refused a $2 500 000 loan from the Dominion government with the condition the Dominion have a direct voice in the affairs of the province The federal treasury insisted Alberta accept strict certain financial controls to repay

Premier W ABerhart refused claiming such a step infringed on provincial rights

The Canadian government refused to loan the sum on any other terms

Secretary Points to Difficulties Attending Increase in Trade and Citizen Protection.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 1 — Secretary of State Cordell Hull told a house appropriations committee in hearings published yesterday that with our increased relations with Japan questions have became not only more numerous but also more difficult

In Japan he said the problems of effecting protection to American citizens and their interests calls today for a great deal more thought and attention than it did several years ago

Hull added the problems created by Japanese legislation which places onerous burdens upon foreign oil companies and Americans doing business in Japan have had our constant attention

The state department chief described United States trade relations with Japan as of outstanding importance and said discussions in regard to the limitation of imports are under consideration

The secretary of state also asserted that the United States was leading the world against war through its trade naval arms reduction and good neighbor policies

The primary purpose of American foreign policy he said is the maintenance and promotion of peace not only between the United States and foreign nations but throughout the world

Whatever war prevails the progress of civilization is [illegible] commerce and industry are impaired heavy tax burdens are imposed upon people and business in general suffers

CHAIN LETTER VOTES PROMOTED BY BORAH

Blanks Sent to Prospective Backers with Request They Contact Friends

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 1.—State campaign headquarters for United States Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho in his fight for Ohio delegates to the Republican national convention has adopted the chain letter idea to enlist voters in the Borah cause.

Instead of organizing Borah-for-president clubs as is the general campaign custom, State Manager Glenn Hancock said today a Borah enrollment has been started which promises great results. Approximately 10,000 voters already have been enrolled, he said.

The voter is sent a blank form which he fills out if he favors the Borah movement. Among other things he [illegible] to do is to send in the names of five or six prospective Borah supporters. These are sent blanks and the process is repeated.

Thus, in a short time Hancock said, one enrollment is expected to bring in the names of several hundred voters to establish a mailing list for Borah campaign material.

Denials That Don't Deny.

Former President Hoover, it has been stated officially, does not favor Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan over any other candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Obviously Mr. Hoover had no choice but to deny such a report.

His denial does not deny, however, that the reasons why he might favor Sen. Vandenberg are good ones. The senator has been a consistent, intelligent critic of the administration. He is actively engaged in national politics. In the senate he is virtually a one-man opposition.

Democrats profess to believe the Republican party lacks presidential timber. The real trouble lies in the other direction. As the time of the convention approaches Republicans face a problem of selection. Officially, as leader of the party, Mr. Hoover cannot favor one candidate against another. Privately he undoubtedly has a favorite. That favorite might be Sen. Vandenberg. It might be Gov. Landon. It might be Col. Knox. It might even be Herbert Hoover.

No Satisfaction

Due to widespread skepticism of the Townsend movement it was inevitable that alarming disclosure of the organization's financial operations would be construed unfavorably by unbelievers. Yet there is no satisfaction in knowing that the current disruption of the movement's headquarters and the scant evidence produced so far by the house committee investigating the Townsend organization must be sorely testing the faith of Dr. Townsend's devoted followers.

Whatever happens they are entitled to more sympathy than blame. It is not in a spirit of vengeance that so many of their neighbors are interested in [illegible] the inherent unsoundness of the Townsend movement made plain, but in a spirit of helpfulness. If it can be proved, as it may be, that not only the theory of their movement but its organization as well are unsound, Townsend followers would be the victims of pitiable disillusionment.

There is a possibility, of course, that popular sympathy will swing toward, not away from, the Townsend minority as a result of the attempt to reveal its defects. Certainly there is no reason to say, as many skeptics are saying, that the movement has collapsed. In all probability Townsendism will continue to be a factor for many years to come. It might even be strengthened by its experience with investigators. Faith attacked tends to become stronger, not weaker.

Revised Ratings.

No. 1 men have come and gone rapidly through the front and rear doors of the White House during the last three years. There were Moley, Sprague, Johnson, Frankfurter, Tugwell, Baruch and Richberg, to name the most prominent ones. Each in his turn was supposed to have been President Roosevelt's favorite. Some no longer call at the executive offices, others still have easy access to the presidential ear.

It is a matter of interest that Donald Richberg, once called assistant president of the United States, has moved up recently from well down in the list to at least a temporary rating of No. 1 White House consultant. No one apparently had been giving the matter any special thought, but it was generally assumed that Mr. Richberg had dropped out of the picture. It is barely possible that Gen. Johnson, the friendly castigator, will be renewing old ties and affiliations next? The general too was supposed to be an expert at conciliating big business. When Barney Baruch returns to the fold, if [illegible], it will be possible to say definitely that the new deal has been dealt and the cards [illegible] being shuffled again.

Russia's Troublesome Discovery.

Russia's discovery that a workman can do more work than he is inclined to do seems to be a golden apple of discord. The age of efficiency apparently is no more attractive to communistic workers than to their mass production brothers toiling under capitalism.

Both instinctively resent what they consider unreasonable pressure for production. Under capitalism the pressure is known as the "speedup." Under communism it's called "rationalization," but names don't matter greatly. The offense to human nature is the same in both cases.

Most workers are willing to do a good day's work provided they think the standard is reasonable. But when efficiency experts try to crowd them into a faster pace they immediately grow resentful. Their own welfare and comfort are more important to them than production.

In Russia, of course, workers are supposed to be anxious to do as much as possible for the state. But Russian workers probably aren't greatly different from their brothers elsewhere. Whether it's called the "speedup" or something else the idea of being forced to the limit still is a pain in the [illegible]. The [illegible] who discovered [illegible] can't expect to [illegible] hero of his comrades. More likely they will devise names for him [illegible] as easily as the efficiency expert [illegible] in the United States where speeding up is a [illegible] practice.

For Example

The most serious [illegible] against the Roosevelt administration [illegible] apparent inability to [illegible] its proposals. The fault [illegible] in the first instance with President Roosevelt, himself a brilliant [illegible] enough man. In the [illegible] fault lies with Mr. [illegible], many of whom are [illegible] no experience in the complex matters with which they are dealing.

The pending tax proposal is a good example of vague [illegible] thinking and confused purposes. It has been presented to congress in a form so indefinite that no one is able to understand what it is supposed to be. Consequently congressmen are engaged in the hazardous occupation of guessing. A bad bill is in the [illegible]. The only question is: How bad will the ultimate bill be? Congress [illegible] its present state of mind is capable of setting a new record for ineptitude.

The tragic aspect [illegible] the administration's palpable inexperience in tax legislation threatens to complicate the affairs of private business men with legislation which will not be satisfactory even to itself. The new deal frankly wants to obtain more revenue by revising certain taxes, but needs the experts to know how to proceed. It is by no means improbable that it may obtain less instead of more revenue and that it may penalize instead of assist small corporations by the hastily prepared scheme to punish large corporations Mr. Roosevelt [illegible]. It would be bad enough if they showed any sign of having been made after due deliberation and careful discussion. They are doubly unacceptable because they obviously are lacking both in expertness and careful deliberation. There is every reason to believe that the new deal once more has plunged impulsively off the deep end, a performance which shatters confidence both in the [illegible] and [illegible] of the federal government.

All Is Forgiven

It's April now and all is forgiven. Even those days when the mercury coyly refused to approach zero from the bottom of the tube can be overlooked when buds are bursting and green is growing. Everything turned out all right in the end, as it always does.

Once more the rule of life and [illegible]. In the ascendancy, King Winter has been dethroned and there is no possibility of restoration until the early Christmas advertisers begin to sing the Santa Claus theme again. All is well. The yellow blooms of the forsythia prove it.

There is, of course, a rift in the lute. Besides being the first of April this also is April Fools day. But just to show what a stimulating thing spring really is there isn't a word of fooling in this [illegible] announcement. It's spring—no fooling.

Changing Clothes.

Court officials are staggered by a new edict issued by King Edward VIII sweeping away a rule which existed since the early days of Queen Victoria's reign.

This final sentence of a dispatch from England may cause Americans to wonder what manner of man is this new king who staggers his court attaches, but readers should be reassured when they discover the new dictum regulates only a matter of court dress.

Still Americans may be forgiven for puzzling over the significance of an order which decrees that high officials of the court should wear cutaway tail coats when "in attendance" instead of the black knee-length frock coats which have been customary. Doubtless a sweeping change, a generous concession, is being made—but will it threaten the Magna Carta?

Doubt as to the king's wisdom in initiating this revolutionary change is aggravated, not allayed, by the fact he has also approved a short black lounge vest such as worn by an office or store clerk for ordinary wear at Buckingham Palace, although insisting that the tail coat is still essential on all formal occasions in which uniform is not ordered. When an English king starts to change his habits of dress the parliamentary form of government may be in danger.

General Dawes, who had some trouble with knee breeches when he was ambassador to the court of St. James, will probably rejoice to hear the news.

'Quantity Discounts' Ruling Important

Decision That They're Not Monopolistic May Affect Proposed Chain Store Legislation.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Chain store [illegible] may [illegible] to be revised [illegible] of the late decision of the supreme court of the United States [illegible] quantity discounts [illegible] monopolistic but [illegible] might interfere [illegible] consumption.

The Robinson-Patman bill now pending before [illegible] that quantity discounts may be [illegible] by the federal trade commission [illegible] discriminatory [illegible]. But the supreme court of the United States in its opinion in the first case [illegible] that quantity discounts are a [illegible] and confirmed the [illegible] of the lower court with regard to [illegible] members of the sugar institute [illegible] concerted [illegible] either in [illegible].

[illegible] the federal trade [illegible] quantity [illegible] though [illegible] quantity discounts.

[illegible] in the [illegible] the right to [illegible] court [illegible] the sugar [illegible] following quotation from the [illegible] opinion of the [illegible] justice who participated in the [illegible].

[illegible] the court, concerning the lower court's finding that the refiners' [illegible] quantity purchases of raws which constituted 50 per cent of the cost of refined, that quantity sales effected no appreciable [illegible] savings in manufacturing [illegible] and no savings in [illegible] but that the sale to those who could take [illegible] direct from the refinery [illegible] savings in delivery, storage, bookkeeping and other incidental expenses.

And [illegible] the court found that [illegible] which distribute production more evenly through the year effect substantial savings to the refiners and that [illegible] so that encouragement of large sales through quantity discount might reasonably be expected to build up total production and thus effect economies.

Also that a quantity discount of which [illegible] selling manufacturer [illegible] as well as to manufacturers buying directly from refineries might result in a [illegible] to sugar consumption [illegible] control the [illegible]. But we are not convinced that the finding are contrary to the [illegible].

[illegible] the supreme court affirms the lower court's view of the evidence and rule that a quantity discount which tends to build up total production was not a restraint [illegible] a proper development of a system of free competition which [illegible] economies [illegible] the course of a quantity discount [illegible] fraudulent purpose or to [illegible] would presumably not be prohibited by the courts. [illegible] that the burden of proof to show that a quantity discount does substantially lessen competition will be upon those who attack a quantity discount and that where any economy in indirect costs can be shown the practice probably would be upheld.

It is interesting to note that the supreme court in the sugar case reaffirmed a principle which it set forth in an opinion rendered in [illegible] with reference to combination in [illegible] of fair trade practice. The [illegible] the Appalachian [illegible] at this time carries considerable [illegible] because it conforms with [illegible] made by President Roosevelt [illegible] for cooperation in industry to increase employment [illegible] Justice Hughes.

We have held that a [illegible] which carries with it no [illegible] not to be condemned [illegible] undue restraint [illegible] it may affect a change in market conditions where the change would be in mitigation of [illegible] evils and would not impair fair and [illegible] competitive opportunities.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, April 1, 1926.

A terrific wind storm and blizzard which swept in from the midwest gave Marion and vicinity what was described as the most unusual April fool joke of recent years. There was a 54 degree drop in temperature and a new fall of one and one-half inches. [illegible] lines were torn down, roofs blown off two houses, trees damaged and [illegible] frozen.

Dr. Lewis W. McMurray, Marion county chairman of [illegible] military training camp enrollment, announced that six applicants had been received.

The Isaly dairy basketball team of Marion won the central Ohio championship by defeating the Columbus Lantern Drugs in the final game of the tournament at Columbus, 25 to 15. [illegible] with six field goals and Applegate with five were Marion's high scorers. [illegible] led the Isaly team scoring of the season with a total of 197 points. Applegate was next with 153.

Grant L. Metser Jr. was installed as exalted ruler of Marion lodge of Elks.

Jacob Bishop, 75, died at the home of his son, David Bishop, on North Greenwood street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, April 1, 1916.

Col. George A. Dodd, commanding the American troops pursuing Francisco Villa and his shattered force in Mexico, established a field base at Guerrero, the town where the Carranza garrison had been massacred by Villistas. An El Paso dispatch reported that Villa had been wounded in a battle with the Americans and probably would be unable to escape capture or death for many days.

Twenty-eight persons were killed and 44 injured by bombs dropped by Zeppelin airships which raided the eastern coast of England. One of the Zeppelins was forced down and the crew captured.

[illegible] Wes[illegible], receiver for the C. D. & M. Electric Co., announced that eight new street cars had been bought for the city lines.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Two weeks after President Roosevelt sent his corporation tax recommendation to congress [illegible] a peep had been heard from the corporations.

The spokesmen at the capital, the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce, were fairly silent. Smart new deal tax strategists started rumors that the reason was that the program would really be beneficial to small corporations which comprise the bulk of the membership of these two corporate mouthpieces.

The [illegible] rumors will be denied heavily when the two groups make their views public, leaving the mystery as deep as ever.

Frustration

[illegible] seems to be that the treasury has presented a moving tax target for the opposition to shoot at and not entirely by design.

The original Roosevelt recommendations have been changed daily in the private meetings of the house committee. For two weeks there was not even a written plan. No bill has yet been offered. Only a printed outline has been written by the house committee in the form of a report. Not even a tax expert can understand it. This in a situation where specific language means everything, [illegible] language has been [illegible].

As one [illegible] corporation tax authority [illegible]: "We are in the same spot as the immortal Ty Cobb when he faced Walter Johnson in his prime. After striking out for the [illegible] time Cobb returned to the bench and observed: 'You can't hit 'em if you can't see 'em.'"

Wail

A group of prominent Republican business men paid their personal respects to their own Republican [illegible] at a private luncheon in New York the other day. The [illegible] was that the Republican campaign is nothing to brag about right now from a technical standpoint.

[illegible] that Republican politicians look like a bunch of amateurs playing against these new deal professionals.

[illegible] another: "They will reelect Roosevelt before they get through."

Specific complaints were that the Republicans in congress and on the stump were being outgeneraled, that Republican Chairman Fletcher had failed to establish a formidable central control in the national committee and that a weekly coordinated [illegible] being [illegible].

Spade Work

A well-known big business man in the dry goods industry has been [illegible] to line up a few of his top [illegible] for [illegible]. He will call them "the Business Committee for Roosevelt" or something like that.

The idea is to further the opinion that not all big business is against the new deal. His committee will contain many outstanding [illegible]. The organization is to be entirely political and has nothing to do with the [illegible] Roper business council.

Some of the [illegible] he has approached have [illegible] him how much machinery [illegible] all the government funds [illegible] projects in the last three years.

Baffling

If you tie these three separate developments into one bundle, you will not [illegible] similarity of cause and effect. They afford a [illegible] into the [illegible] which [illegible] is moving on.

[illegible] the history of [illegible] from the NRA horse and buggy position to the latest AAA circumvention [illegible] TVA [illegible] cut through the tree opening into the latest [illegible] which is [illegible] with wiping out the original committees [illegible] relief [illegible].

The inner plant around Republican headquarters and business headquarters is somewhat the same. If you cannot see it you cannot hit it.

These are the reasons why [illegible] has quieted down the last few weeks.

Withdrawal

A Washington society mystery has been cleared up over the question of why Mrs. Isabella Greenway, the well-liked Arizona congresswoman, decided not to run again. She is an old friend and bridesmaid of the Roosevelts.

All she has told her friends is that she wants to give more time to her son. What they believe is that she took the gracious way out of continuing to vote against the White House. She never let her friendship interfere with her voting—opposing Mr. Roosevelt on the economy bill and many another.

At a White House dinner Mr. Roosevelt is said to have twitted her about it, whereupon she replied:

"Frank, I wish you would come out for something that I could be for."

NEW YORK, April 1.—[illegible] is going [illegible] Russian again in its [illegible]. The [illegible] of eight years ago [illegible] block [illegible] café conducted by [illegible] New York identity [illegible].

It was [illegible] Vincent Astor [illegible] Prince Obolensky [illegible] the Russian [illegible] St. Regis. It was a sort of glorified [illegible] throwback to the days of Muscovy [illegible]. A borsch and caviar [illegible] clicked from the [illegible].

The Sherry-Netherland has a [illegible] establishment presided over by the celebrated General Lodijensky who used to receive the bontons so graciously at the Russian Eagle. [illegible] the leader of this type of eating place. The General is also to [illegible] the Russian Eagle.

Two other Russian places are being readied on West [illegible] street and there are already a half dozen in the Grand Central zone. The Russian spots are usually dimly lit and gold candle [illegible] and feature an obtrusive accordionist and guitarist strolling from table to table.

Two of the most enthusiastic badge collectors in the country are Morton Downey, the tenor, and [illegible], the comedian. This has been their hobby for a number of years. Downey specializes in police and fire badges and always carries a number in his coat pocket. [illegible], who has worn a cap all his life, plays no favorites. Every sort of badge from the celluloid cigar button to the huge Pomeranian symbol is his dish. His vest is usually decorated with a half dozen or so.

Peggy Fears, whose bundle of energy seems to include a round of the popular spots nightly, has acquired a thoroughly [illegible] gait which brings a full and sudden stop to the conversational hum wherever she appears. Miss Fears' gait is a long stride and she arrives with a swoop, her hair flying long, thick, loose. Her ensemble is an exotic creation of sequin flowers. And she has been tanned to a Polynesian tint.

Nearly every motion picture star has an almost insurmountable hurdle in recording voice for the talkies. Kay Francis's stumbler is the letter s. She cannot make a word with that letter sound right no matter how hard she tries. So dialogue writers skillfully turn out parts for her that contain the minimum of that fatal letter.

When Percy Hammond was in Hollywood the first time recently he met among others Jean Harlow. In the course of conversation Miss Harlow wondered why she could not be a success as a dramatic actress on the stage. With mock gravity Hammond told her it was because she had no sex appeal. A group of her friends listening in took the observation seriously and went deeply into a discussion. Hammond, not sure whether he was being kidded or not, huffed and puffed, then fled.

Incidentally the real purpose of John O'Hara's visit to Hollywood is said to have nothing to do with writing for the movies. His mission is to write a novel about Hollywood that will end all novels about Hollywood. And perhaps the briefest literary visit to the cinema capital lately was that of Katharine Brush. She remained three days.

Richard Outcault, the cartoonist, on a relaxing excursion once walked up to Considine's bar with De Wolf Hopper and, before downing his drink, gravely slapped his uppers and lowers on the mahogany. Not to be outdone, Hopper lifted off his toupe and placed it alongside. A lonely Englishman watching a few feet away sidled up and said: "I say, I'd like jolly well to get in this. Cheerio." And plopped a glass eye among the trophies.

[illegible] Business Gains

Big business has [illegible] troubles, but here a [illegible] big business. In [illegible] General Motor [illegible] reports [illegible] to $119 [illegible] $60,677,070 [illegible] a gain of more tha [illegible] two hundred ninety-two millio [illegible] dollars. It means many [illegible] made happ [illegible]. The company paid out in wa [illegible] more than three hundred a [illegible] twenty [illegible] million dollars, [illegible] including wages paid indirectly [illegible] thousands of workers produc [illegible] of which automobiles [illegible].

Those who think we should go back to the days of the ox cart, the horse and buggy, are remin [illegible] the [illegible] of bugg [illegible] would produce for many years [illegible] for paying workers $3 [illegible] that Alfred P. Sloan [illegible] paid to his own men in one s [illegible] year, besides many other hundr [illegible] of millions to workers producing [illegible]. It is not such a bad thing for a country to have here and there men of exceptional ability, and it would be a serious mis [illegible] to shoot or even discourage all of them.

Annoying

A gentleman is told: "Your uncle died in Australia, leaves you one million pounds; send money for ex [illegible]."

It [illegible] the family to be told: "Don't send money to that lawyer. You know you have no Australian uncle; there are no million pounds."

[illegible] millions of elderly American men and women, [illegible] collect money from the [illegible] Uncle Sam can and will not pay $200 a month to every man and woman past 60, a total cost [illegible] twenty-four mil [illegible] dollars a year. Visions of wealth [illegible] unwel [illegible] abuses hat [illegible].

This [illegible] truth-telling [illegible] even by those who know that [illegible] fantastic sche [illegible] discourage [illegible] that would prevent the old [illegible] pen [illegible] is the country might and sh [illegible] pay.

An interesting letter from [illegible] Ohio [illegible] A. Meyer and [illegible] this writer says [illegible] no longer be told [illegible] we all [illegible] pin money from [illegible] comes in handy.

The letter says further: "I [illegible] to impress upon your feeble [illegible] that the Townsend O. A. R. [illegible] the only project that will re [illegible] for our country a sound [illegible] just go on with your [illegible] makeup of words, something about a pelican or [illegible] creature of old, randomly [illegible] from an encyclopedia."

Attempting to show the [illegible] ness of even the wildest ho [illegible] an ungrateful task. This write [illegible] probably abstain from any [illegible] reference to the Townsend [illegible] beyond advising old people [illegible] contribute dimes or dollars to [illegible] tlemen that profess to be en [illegible] in getting for them $200 a [illegible] and are actually spending as [illegible] as $2000 a month of the ol [illegible] people's money, plus expenses, [illegible] dimes old folks so far [illegible] Townsend plan is concerned [illegible] for an old age pensio [illegible] might become a reality.

131 YOUNG PEOPLE AT EASTER SERVICE

Miss Mabel Wheatley Addresses High School Pupils at Christian Church.

It is a fine art to be able to place things in the order of their importance in our lives Miss Mabel Wheatley told a group of 131 young people who met this morning for pre-Easter services at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Girl Reserves and Hi Y clubs in cooperation with the Y M C A

Miss Wheatley talked on The Social Side of the Abundant Life. David Isaly was the leader and Betty Lusch was the pianist

We learn through wholesome social activities some positive values fair play kindness to others and most of all the value of subjecting our personal desires for the good of the whole group Miss Wheatley said. She spoke of the world task for Christian youth in raising the standard of social justice

It is not necessary for young people today to make mistakes she said because history gives us countless examples of those who stood for the highest conception of life's values those who discovered the relation between character and conduct and who by their service found the abundant life by enriching the lives of others

Rev James O [illegible] of the Central Christian church will speak on The Spiritual Side of the Abundant Life at the Thursday morning service which will start at 7 [illegible]. The services are open to all who wish to attend

Her mother hoped my silly designs could do something for her—if anyone can, Phina can make people look as they should—and I was sorry for her and showed it. Result—as you see. She doesn't mean to be forward, she's like a bewildered bullied child. She has a good brain really."

Iris stood there a moment thinking, the candle in her hand making her a picturesque illuminated figure in the dusky corner between the tall wooden Madonna and the teal table full of Chinese trinkets and cocktail glasses.

Allan Beckley took the candle from her, set it down and was away with her again.

"I heard you talking," he said. "I think you're wonderful. I want to have a dinner party for you. It's your duty," his voice was a little teasing—"to attend it. I'll get my grandmother to matronize it."

He said the last sentence as if he were offering her a jewel of great price instead of an elderly grandmother. She wondered who he grandmother might be that having her as chaperon was so wonderful, and then decided that he was simply one of those people who think everything they have is wonderful because it belongs to them. But he was ... him.

It was getting late. People were drifting away from the party, some of them speaking to Georgia, others merely piling out as though from a restaurant. There were more lights now disclosing the ash-scattered devastated place, a couple of the caterer's men Camilla was paying for bored and obviously hoped everyone else would go. ... about the ruins of sandwiches and glasses and overturned chairs and rolled up rug.

Georgia, sharp and bright-lipped in her red, lounged up with a couple of men. Camilla trotted heavily behind her.

"Oh, are you going to have a party, Allan? Oh, ask me!" Camilla cried with a heavy gayety which Iris realized masked desperation.

"Oh, all right," Allan's voice trailed languidly.

Georgia, assuming with cool nonchalance said that she too had been asked said, "Make it a stunt party. Everybody but the host has to do tricks—or bring somebody who does them."

"I know a wonderful fortune teller I can hire," Camilla shrilled.

"I'll dance of course," Georgia went on. "And I suppose Iris does something wonderful." Her voice was soft and silky.

"I can sing—my grandmother's songs," said Iris. "In costume if you like." All alight and excited she smiled up at Georgia.

"That," said Georgia, "will be wonderful. We'll feature you. Beautiful unknown doing Songs of the Seventies. I can just see you. Remember you won't be let off. It'll be priceless. And now, darlings, I simply have to throw you all out. Or revel on without me. I got to be on my way. Good-by, beautiful unknown. Crazy about having you!"

She was off and up toward the dressing rooms.

The others seemed to see nothing unusual in this. Some of them followed her to the place where wraps were. Others merely turned the radio to a dance orchestra number, and continued to glide among the caterer's men. As Iris turned to follow the others upstairs Camilla put a hot heavy hand on her arm.

"I want to tell you something," she said in her schoolgirl whisper. "I like you and I want you to be friends with me. You can. I don't do things to people. But Georgia does. She doesn't go out of her way to hurt if people get into it she's horrid. When she talks in that specially purr way is when you want to watch out if she is my cousin."

She and Allan make a sort of game out of everything. They've always had everything they feel as if the world belonged to them and other people were—serfs kind of and they kings and queens. You don't you're ... al and kind and you'll get hurt."

"All right. I'll be careful," Iris said lightly—poor frightened Camilla, with whom Georgia had evidently been severe. Camilla, she thought, had been seeing too many movies. "And I'll see you at Allan Beckley's dinner."

And she ran up the stairs. The stairs did not ... feel like stairs. They felt like walking on air.

Allan was close behind her.

"We haven't settled the date of our dinner," he said. "Would ... day a week—"

"Grand."

She felt for something to put it ... on and pulled out Uncle Will's opened letter. As she took Allan's offered pencil and began to make a note on the margin her eyes were caught by the clear old-fashioned writing and she read it absorbedly while Allan stood tall above her, waiting.

"I am not quite as well as formerly," wrote Uncle Will—who ... and your aunt ... bed with a queer sort of ... But Morgan manages things splendidly and Molly Williams comes in to work by the day and is a host in herself. We ... little girl of course but are glad she's having a good ..."

"Oh, Allan, I can't come to your ... All the fairy tale times ... swept away and it showed ... troubled but steadfast ... face lifted to him on the stairs in the half light. "Not unless it's years off. I have to go home."

But it was not possible she found to say anything before or at dinner. A burly red-cheeked explosive Frenchman, a representative of Movieux, was dining, and Iris found herself swept into the conversation in her fluent Aunt Ella-learned French. M. Grieux seemed to like her.

When the guest had gone she called Phina back from her desk and spoke to her with resolution, straightening up from the low wide mound of silver cloth on one side of the strange modernistic fireplace. It was chilly. A log had been brought from some invisible hiding place and were burning as docilely as most things did for Aunt Phina.

"I'm afraid I must go back to Pet... after all. Uncle Will is ill and Aunt Ella ... is in a curious sort of state from what he says."

"Go back, you foolish baby? That would upset everything."

Madge Repeats for Dicky the Information She Received from Mrs. Ticer

"NO, I'VE nothing more to tell you," Mrs. Ticer said when I had ended my telephone conversation with the nurse at the farmhouse. "And though I have ... to tell you ... I ... you very often even if we are next door neighbors—I know you ... keep Mr. Graham waiting for his dinner. I hope those men haven't kept him up in the upper pasture. You won't be back in ten minutes if they have."

"You don't mean you would have to go after them?" I exclaimed quickly. "I'll blow the motor horn."

"They wouldn't pay attention to that, I'm afraid," she said. "So many cars go past here. But I won't have to go after them. I'll just ring this old dinner bell. That would wake the dead better than Gabriel and his trumpet. They'll come a-running when they hear that."

She picked up the big old-fashioned bell as she passed a shelf over the kitchen sink, but she had no opportunity to prove its prowess—with accustomed fingers she kept the clapper silent until it should be time to ring it. For as we stepped outside the kitchen door we saw Dicky with Mr. Ticer and Jerry standing by the barn talking animatedly.

But I noticed that Dicky was furtively watching the house, and as soon as he saw me he said something in an undertone to the ... and started for the house. They followed him as slowly and in much the same fashion. I ... myself with amusement as if he had commanded them to heel.

Start Back Home

"Important confab over?" Dicky asked genially as the little procession came up to us. "Did you get the quilt pattern?"

Mrs. Ticer opened her lips. I knew to ask "What quilt pattern?"—but fortunately I had my hand on her arm and my quiet swift pinch was as effective in silencing her, I imagine, as my purposely exuberant reply.

"Oh, yes, I did, and it's a wonderful one. I can hardly wait to begin mine. I warn you, Dicky, whenever you miss me in the next few days you can come over here looking for me. I shall be ... ing quilt blocks with Mrs. Ticer."

"Haw, haw," Sam Ticer ... Jerry laughed ... heartily ... if I had just uttered the best witticism of the year. "That's a good one."

"You can't ... me ... " Mrs. Ticer said ... Dicky and I ... away.

"I ... everything ... at my best to keep those two ... coming back to the ... bursting in on ... " ... he said ... " ... been giving ... an earful."

... Mrs. Ticer ... telephoned ... the table in 15 minutes ... I warned.

"Well ... I can tell ... words ... syllable ... he said. "I can see ... have ... and ... if Katie ... have a spasm or two you'll ... spill."

An Old Peach

"Yes, I ... to tell you right away. ... I thought perhaps we'd better get ... one first."

"With ... and Katie both ... find out where ... what happened?" ... right here and now ... Tell ... your husband isn't ... There isn't a ... or a point that could shield any possible eavesdropper. Keep your voice to the pitch which is an excellent thing in woman and shoot ... as quickly as you can."

He ... ended with ... a word and with his face very grave as I told what ... Ticer had ... said.

"So ... I ... when I ... finished. His ... nigh ... if those ... had ever ... she was listening to them ... seen her next when she was."

"... Dicky," I interposed hastily, for I could guess the gist ... of his sentence.

"All right," he agreed, "but this is a mighty serious business. ... something will have to be done about it right away. This is even worse than ... feared. He didn't expect they'd get on so quickly to his being away from the farmhouse."

"But they're not really sure yet," I said hopefully. "Mrs. Ticer said they said they wished they could be certain."

"It'll be our job to keep them from getting certain," Dicky said grimly. "I've got to get busy tonight."

"Dicky!" I turned and clutched him by the shoulders. "You're not going up there."

Ohio State Football Squad Put Through First Session Of Practice by Schmidt

Sixty-Eight Men Out for Preliminary Session; Mentor Keeps Eye on Freshmen Eligible Next Year.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. April 1 — With the last day of March providing convincing football weather Coach Francis A. Schmidt patiently put his big football squad through a spring training routine yesterday inquiring only once if it took 5,000 men to catch one pass.

The squad, 68 men, beat Schmidt to the field for the first time in years. When he arrived they went through a long forward pass drill and picked up fundamentals incidentally.

Schmidt kept his eye particularly on more than half the men in uniform. They were freshmen eligible for varsity berths next fall. The team lost 15 lettermen by graduation last year and Schmidt was on the lookout for replacements.

Gomer Jones, last year's captain was around to help coaching. So were Frank Boucher and several others.

Outstanding freshmen included Joe Aleskus of Youngstown, William Booth of East Liverpool, Tony Kinel of Newton Falls, Ernest Cartwright of Tiffin, William Bullock of Kent, Jim Hull of Greenfield, Kenneth Kleinfelder of Sandusky, Emerson Wendt of Middletown and Louis Young of Massillon.

Emerson Wendt's big brother Merle, the new captain and a flock of other veterans were on hand. They included Frank Antenucci of Niles, Johnny Betteridge of Toledo, Frank Cumiskey of Youngstown, Vic Dorris of Delaware, Charley Hamrick of Gallipolis, Sol Maggied of Columbus, Jim McDonald of Springfield, Tom Monahan of Lorain, Charley Ream of Navarre, Nick Wasylik of Astoria, L. I., Jumping Joe Williams of Parkersburg and Gus Zarnas of Youngstown.

BLUM-JEVAS PAIR LEAD IN DOUBLES

Clunk - Augenstine Combination Wins Single Game Honors With 320 Score.

The Blum-Jevas duo hit the pins for 880 points to collect high team score when mixed doubles keglers rolled on the Recreation alleys Monday night. Single game score honors went to the Clunk-Augenstine duo with 320 pins. Of the 22 participants McGill hit the highest single game total by bumping the maples for a 2_0 score. TRACK COACH ILL

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. April 1. An attack of influenza prevented Larry Snyder, Ohio State track coach, from directing the workout of the team yesterday but practice was held despite absence of the mentor. Two attending physicians said Snyder would be unable to resume his coaching duties for about two weeks.

KANSAS CITY BLUES PICKED FOR GOOD SHOWING IN 1936

Club's Manager Hopes for First Division Berth in American Association.

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, April 1—Edward H. (Dutch) Zwilling, blocky bald headed manager of the Kansas City Blues believes he has a club good enough for a first division berth in the American association this year. The roster indicates he is quite conservative. It may be the first first division club.

Zwilling bolsters the strength of last year's team with newcomers who have been tested under fire. The result looms as a well balanced club with good pitching, good fielding and at least average hitting.

No Catching Worries

Two infielders, an outfielder and at least four pitchers make up the new blood counted upon to bolster the team. Zwilling has no catching worries with [illegible] and Madjeski and George Susce [illegible].

The veteran Dale Alexander who finished the season in a hospital after being beaned, is back at first base. Ham Schulte is back at second but new faces are at short and third.

Marty Hopkins, obtained from the Chicago White Sox has the inside track for third base although Joe Vance, the handy man last year, is making a fight for it. Hopkins starred with St. Paul a few years ago. He is rated a better hitter than Bill Trubaker, 1935 third sacker and a capable fielder.

Shortstop Is New

Eddie Marshall, the new shortstop, was obtained from Milwaukee in a deal which still has Zwilling and Johnny Kling, club president, wrinkling their brows. Marshall was good enough to be chosen on some all-star association teams last year and why the Brewers would let him go is puzzling the Kansas City men.

Bill McCulloch, an outfielder purchased by the White Sox from the Dallas club in the Texas league last fall, is with Kansas City on option and George Stumpf, another outfielder sold on trial by Kansas City to the White Sox, has been returned.

Wiley Moore heads a good pitching cast. The newcomers include Carl Fischer, 30-year old southpaw who spent six years in the majors and hopes to be back there again, Larry Irvin, another left hander who is attempting a comeback, Joe Vance and John Nikkeling.

OFFERS WILSON CONTRACT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 1. Hack Wilson, the pudgy outfielder who used to bust fences for the Chicago Cubs, had a $5,000 invitation to return to Chicago baseball today—on a kindlier scale. William G. Hurley, manager of the Chicago Mills semi-pro team, telegraphed Wilson at the former major leaguer's home in Martinsburg, W. Va., the offer of a $5,000 contract to play with the Mills this season.

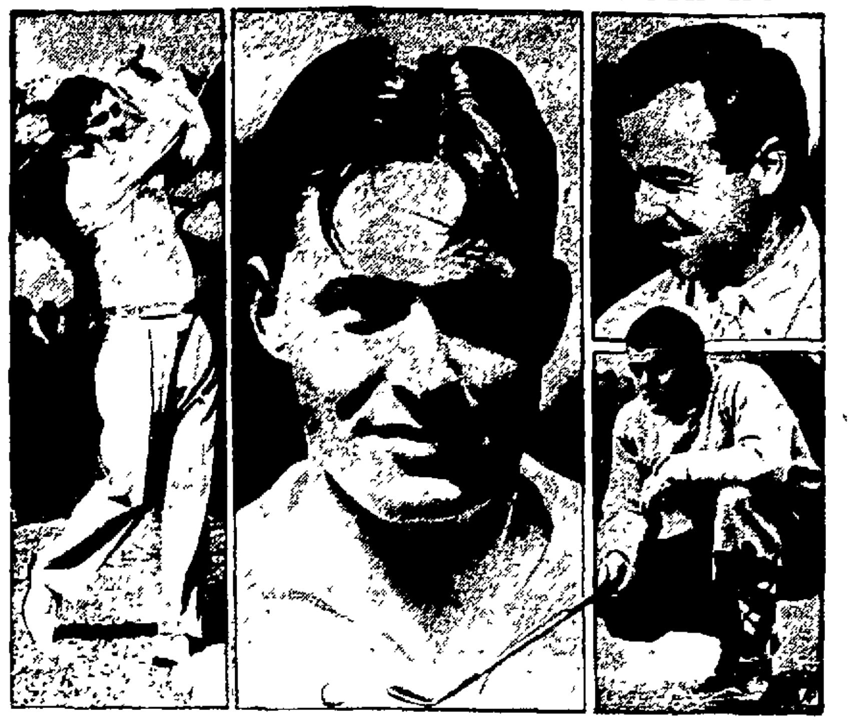
TOP GOLFERS SET FOR TOURNEY



With the king of the links, Bobby Jones, center, at their head, the nation's outstanding golfers are set to tee off in the Augusta national invitation golf tournament at Augusta, Ga., on Thursday, April 2. Among Bobby's outstanding competitors will be such stars as Johnny Revolta, U. S. P. G. A. champion and high money winner of 1935, Lawson Little, lower right, British and U. S. amateur champion and Gene Sarazen, top right, the defending champion. (Associated Press Photo)

Augusta Golf Tourney To Get Under Way Thursday

By The Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1. American golf's biggest, most interesting non-championship show, the third annual $5,000 Augusta National Invitation tournament, starts tomorrow with a touch reminiscent of the old Georgia battle cry—Bobby Jones against the field.

It may be expecting a great deal of the 34-year-old Atlantan to recapture his old-time world championship form just for one tournament a year but he's just shown enough of it during the past few weeks here and elsewhere to make his comeback prospects brighter than at any time in the last three years.

Marcus, the bookmakers, talking on their hitch in their prices after seeing Jones shoot the Augusta course in 10 strokes under par for a 72-hole practice total of [illegible], made the Georgian a 10 to 1 shot today.

Gene (Double Eagle) Sarazen, the 1935 winner, and tall Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., pro, who faltered after setting a sizzling pace last spring, ruled the co-favorites at 8 to 1 in the latest call-over. Bracketed with Jones at 10 to 1 were Johnny Revolta, the brilliant P. G. A. champion, and W. Lawson Little, Jr., world champion of the amateurs for the past two years, who was sixth in the 1935 Augusta tournament.

The veteran Walter Hagen was expected today to augment the field that includes all of the former rivals of Jones in his championship days.

"I've been hitting the ball pretty well," said Jones today. "I hope to do better than in the previous tournaments here but this field is much too fast for me. Any one of a dozen pros can win, judging from the way they are all shooting."

The tournament consists of four 18-hole rounds on as many days, Thursday to Sunday inclusive. Pairings for the opening round were to be made today.

RECORD CRACKER

Jack Kasley, above, of the University of Michigan, cracked all existing records for the 200-yard and 200-meter swims at New Haven, Conn., in the National Collegiate A. A. meet. He won the award as the nation's outstanding college swimmer of the year.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER. Three ball players up with the Dodgers from the minors will soon be back where they came from. Casey Stengel said Vince Sherlock would be returned to Indianapolis, Wayne Osborne to the San Francisco Missions and Colonel Buster Mills to the Rochester Red Wings. Only two players, Johnny Cooney and Oscar Eckhardt, veteran outfielders, remain on trial.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Spurgeon Chandler was transferred from the Yankees to their farm team Newark yesterday simply by moving from one bench to the other during the fifth inning of the game between the teams which Newark won 7-2.

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—Lloyd Brown and Roy Lee have been nominated by Manager Steve O'Neill for mound duty today as the Tribe meets the Giants in the eighth game of their series.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Manager Mickey Cochrane was worried over a couple of batting slumps, one of them his own case, as his Detroit Tigers prepared to encounter the St. Louis Browns today. The other hitting decline concerned Al Simmons. Cochrane has no hits in his last 11 times at bat. Simmons has made two in 16 trips to the plate.

LONGVIEW, Tex.—Big Bill Swift planned today to go seven innings against the White Sox in the second game of the Pirate series and let Waite Hoyt finish up. Tommy Padden's homer kept the Pirates from a whitewashing yesterday as the Sox took the first game here.

WESLEYAN, OHIO U., MIAMI BIG BIDDERS FOR TRACK TITLE

O. W. U., Minus Two of Last Year's Stars To Depend on Sophomore Talent

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. April 1—Ohio university, winner of the Buckeye track championship a year ago, must defeat a pair of strong challengers, Miami and Ohio Wesleyan, to repeat this season.

Merlin Ditmer, freshman coach at Miami, hopes to have Amsden Oliver, hurdler, and Jim Cole, speedy half and quarter miler, in shape for the conference meet at Oxford May 22 and 23. Both have complained of leg injuries. Ditmer is running the Miami team in the absence of Coach George Rider who is going to the Olympics.

Wesleyan will depend on a flock of sophomore talent to bolster its team. Two of last year's conference winners, high jumper Bob Becker and sprinter Gardner Allen, are about Wesleyan's probable starters.

Ohio U. will look to Paul Halleck, winner of the shot and discus events in 1935, to lead the battle for retention of the conference championship. A pair of high scorers in last year's meet, Elden Armbrust and Jim Gilmore, are missing from Ohio U.'s squad but sophomore Ted Powell is expected to step into Gilmore's shoes in the mile and half mile.

The ineligibility of London Grant, husky Negro star, pushed Cincinnati down the list of contenders. Dayton, newcomer in the conference, is expected to send a skeleton team to Oxford while Marshall is not expected to participate.

JOE PROCITA, EXPERT WITH CUE, COMING

To Present Exhibition and Give Instructions in Marion Friday.

Joe Procita, one of the world's first ten ranking pocket billiardists, will appear at Marion Billiard Parlor at 118 West Center street Friday night at 9:30 o'clock under the auspices of the National Billiard Association of America.

The Italian billiardist who hails from Gloversville, New York, is one of the most noted instructors in the game and has almost entirely specialized in the instruction division of the sport.

He competed for the first time in world championship pocket billiard competition in the last world title event last December in New York.

When Ralph Greenleaf was forced to withdraw from the event Procita was substituted by the National Billiard Association. Although finishing last in the field of ten, the Italian pocketeer gave a splendid account of himself and was easily the hard luck player of the tourney. On two successive nights he ran into the scare 125 to 0 game and both times had the tough luck of being on the short end of the score. This never had occurred before in championship play. [illegible] Jimmy Caras [illegible] champion defeated him after compiling a run of 104 and the following night the veteran Bennie Allen ran 125 and out.

SCHOOLBOY BEATS OUIMET

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C. April 1—The second round of the North and South amateur championship today found two of the early favorites—Francis Ouimet, twice amateur and once open champion, and Sam Frideman Jr. of Tuscaloosa, Ala., co-medalist, by the wayside. Ouimet was eliminated one up in the first round of match play yesterday by Bobby Dunkelberger, 16-year-old high point schoolboy who had squeezed into the championship flight through a play-off, while Frideman bowed 3 and 1 before W. J. Stockhausen of New York.

OHIO AWAITS U. S. AID FOR RELIEF OF AGED

Federal Social Security Board Approves State's Pension System

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, April 1 — Old age pension officials looked forward today to the government's initial check for its share of pension payments to Ohio's aged.

The federal social security board approved Ohio's old age pension system yesterday assuring the state of at least $8,000,000 in federal funds this year.

J M Lamoreaux, office manager of the division of aid for the aged said the increased revenues will make possible a general increase in pension payments which now average $15 monthly. He said the social security board would pay half of the cost of pension payments which did not exceed $30 a month. Ohio limits payments to $25 monthly. Legislation is under consideration to increase payments to $30 and to reduce residence requirements for eligibility from 15 years to 5 which would add 10,000 persons to the 87,000 now receiving payments.

STOCKS RENEW THEIR ADVANCE

Motors, Steels and Rails Lead Upturn to New Highs in Active Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK April 1—Strength reentered the stock market today with numerous issues stepping up fractions to 3 or more points

Trading was a little faster than that of the preceding session and there was a rather large assortment of new 5-year highs in evidence

Among the outstanding gainers were General Motors Chrysler U S Steel Bethlehem Midland Steel Products Santa Fe Union Pacific Southern Pacific New York Central Seaboard Oil Standard Oil of New Jersey, Kennecott American Smelting Macy, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, Douglas Aircraft Distillers Corp U S Industrial Alcohol Westinghouse, Du Pont, Case and International Harvester

Grains were still hesitant on improved crop weather advices and cotton was under moderate selling pressure most of the day Bonds were steady Reviving tendencies of leading foreign currencies helped sentiment

The weekly steel review of Iron Age confirmed earlier estimates of a sharp upturn in mill operations following the interruption caused by the floods

Steel production currently it was stated has risen to 62½ per cent of capacity the highest rate since June 1930 The average daily output was placed at more than 137,000 tons

The French franc at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions was up .00¼ of a cent at 6.59½ cents and sterling was ¼ of a cent firmer at $4.97¾
